That is a mode of preaching that naturally connects with the story-telling nature of human beings, who “are engaged in a process of constant growth, discovering ourselves and becoming enriched in the tapestry of the days of our lives” (“Life Becomes History,” 1).

Preaching the “Story of Stories” - Homiletic & Pastoral Review

A church needs balanced preaching from all sections of Scripture. Storying is not the only way to preach, and using storying exclusively would not be helpful. Congregations need to hear preaching from the Epistles, Prophets, apocalyptic sections, wisdom and poetic sections of Scripture as well as the narratives.

Preaching using storying techniques

Jesus told stories. A lot of them. He would tell stories people understood to help them grasp something they didn't understand. Stories are a great teaching tool (That's why we teach you how to use them in Preaching Rocket, our step-by-step sermon prep and delivery system. You can try it for free HERE).

1. Use Running Narrative for Bible Stories. Every preacher has pet peeves. One of mine is when a preacher gets up with a story from the Bible, and he goes ahead and tells the entire Bible story. Then he says at the very end, "Now let me give you five observations from this passage," or "let me give you four points from this passage."
